REPUBLICANS

All Making Try For Federal Jobs
And See Handwriting on Wall.

One Year of Morrow Enough and the One Term of Smith a Nightmare.

Fire Department Head Disagrees
With Uncle Sam on Use of Gas Masks.

OUR GULLIBLE KEYSTONES.

It is noticeable that the other bosses in the Republican machine are not going to sulk over President Harding's refusal to give Boss Tobe Hert a Cabinet position and there's a scramble on to land a Federal job from Ches Searcy down to the colored brothers who want to be janitors at the Custom House. Republican employees of the Morrow administration and employees of the local administration see the handwriting on the wall and are trying to land Federal jobs which run for four years more. State Republican office-holders who saw Morrow's majority wiped out in one year know that by 1923 "Howdy Ed" will mean a landslide for Kentucky Democracy. Speaking of "Howdy Ed" and the controversy with the Versailles officials the Democrat says that it will have to take Judge Mulcahy's end, as he was never charged with being a craps shooter, nor was there a warrant issued for him on a gambling charge by the County Judge of Bourbon.

But right here in Louisville is where the proverbial "cold feet" has struck the Republican office-holders, who realize that the Smith "reform" reign is marked for a stinging defeat by the voters in November. Boss Ches Searcy would like to be Commissioner of Internal Revenue with Matt Chilton as his chief assistant. "Bob" Lucas, who seems to have lost ground considerably because of his Lincoln banquet speech, would like to be Internal Revenue Collector here. Speaking of Lucas' speech in the organ of the Herald, censured and refused to publish his remarks as delivered. Chief of Police Petty will be the first one to desert the sinking ship, being slated for the Postmastership in the next few months. The Herald says that the man in charge of the efficient police department head, but we'll bet that Col. Lud will breathe a sigh of relief when he does separate himself from the Keystone cops. What awful nightmares he must have had in the past three years when one thinks of the many drunken and riotous parades of the Keystone police, and how the army of burglars and crooks in our midst have played hide and seek with the street car "yaps" masquerading as policemen.

To add to the Republican machine's fright the negroes are in arms over the fact that Capt. Huhlein, Chief Petty and other prominent Republican leaders are prominent in the organization which the negroes say is a Ku-Klux body. Sunday the colored Republicans held a mass meeting and summoned Huhlein and Petty to explain their position. Chief Petty didn't show and judging from Huhlein's reception he wished that he had "ducked" the issue. One of the Republican speakers there to pacify the negroes said in the new organization would be as fair to the Germans, Irish, negroes and Chinese as it would be to the white people. This Republican compliment is sure to be appreciated by the Irish and German people. Capt. Huhlein made a fiery address, which he thought would properly win the negroes over, but the result was a surprise. Huhlein told how he and other Republican leaders for many years had gone into the negro districts on election day and saw to it that negro voters were brought out in full to vote. This bravery on the part of the speaker didn't seem to arouse much enthusiasm as the negro voters realize that when white Republicans organize and vote the negroes on election day it is done for the sole benefit of the white Republicans and the Hert-Searcy-Chilton machine. Conclusive proof that the negro audience wasn't much impressed by the political address was that cries came from all parts of the hall: "Never mind that, tell us about your Ku-Klux society." The colored Republicans are up in arms over the fact that their white brother Republicans should take a foremost part in a Ku-Klux society and threaten vengeance in November. The Hert-Searcy-Chilton machine leaders say they don't have to worry about the negro vote as crap game privileges keep the low brow negroes in line and the promises of Shawnee Park keeps the high class negro Republicans loyal.

It sure is tough on the machine Herald and the press agents of the "hick" fire department. Just as we were told that the fire underwriters had watched the test of our engines and were contemplating raising Louisville from a fourth-class risk to a third, along comes a series of fires and blunders of the fire department that put a damper on the press agent guff. Inside of five days the fire loss was nearly $100,000, the two Woolworth stores alone showing a fire loss of $62,000, while what the fire didn't destroy the "hicks" finished with the deluge of water thrown in from a safe distance. Following the Woolworth fire our Cincinnati Fire Chief took issue with the United States Government on the use of gas masks. He said that the gas masks were no good, but Uncle Sam said they were alright and used them by the millions in more dangerous places than five and ten-cent store fires. Spectators say the firemen didn't know how to adjust the gas masks, while others cite the fact that a little smoke didn't have much effect on the real fireman we used to have. At thirty-sixth and Plaza avenue Sunday afternoon a shed caught fire and just half a square away the engine from Portland avenue was stationed to pump water. Well the engine puffed and swayed, smoke and sparks rolled out, but no water came through the hose. Another engine arrived and the engine from the first went over to see what the trouble was. The connecting gate in the engine to allow the water to go through the hose had never been opened. Of course the shed burned down and for revenge the "hick" firemen then turned the delayed water on the crowd who had been laughing uproariously at the antics of the "hicks." By the way have you noticed the awful amount of fire plugs being built at the taxpayers' expense, the gaudy red plugs being more prominent than telephone poles. Maybe this is because the country firemen had a hard time locating water plugs, or possibly the city administration has a good friend who sells fire hydrants.

Crooks are human and make mistakes just like anyone else as has been demonstrated recently. Every burglar or holdup man that has flown Louisville after a crime has been caught by the police of some little burg or some railroad detective, as in the Glasgow case. As long as they stay in Louisville they are safe and Louisville's record of mysterious murders for which no one has been convicted stands out as a record for the country. This record has been made in the last three years. The last was the King case, and you remember how the police department's last bulletin was that the white murderer would be caught in twenty-four hours. The hours have passed into days and the King case takes its place with the Griffin, Younger, Lovelace, Lieut. Ward, and the numerous other murders which proved a puzzle to the street-car motormen and conductors.

Here's a sample of how the wicked fool the gullible bosses in the Chief's office, day or night. Sunday night, a young woman was brought from Bruce's Park and road house to the City Hospital, it being charged that she was suffering from poison taken with suicidal intent. The men who brought her gave a lot of fictitious names to the Keystone police, and a Post reporter directed two days later that the automobile in the case belonged to J. Bert Baker, of 1024 Sixth street. The Post reporter failed to add that Baker is a city sidewalk inspector and prominent member of the Chesley Club. Now mind you the Chesleys didn't even discover that the machine belonged to a murderer employed under the same roof in the City Hall. Baker says he loaned his machine to a friend Sunday night, name of friend not being given, and his friends say that the car was with the poisoned girl came from New Albany, which ought to give the gullible cops a clue, but nothing doing as usual, and the case remains a mystery. Every party of joy riders arrested give the names of Napoleon Bonaparte, George Washington, Babe Ruth and Abraham Lincoln, and surprising to say, the Keystone police fall for the bunk names.

VISITING HIS PARENTS.

Major Francis P. Joyce, U. S. A., chaplain at Camp Knox, who was ordered to Gen. Pershing's staff during the war, is in Syracuse on an extended visit with his people. Father Joyce was popular with the men of the A. E. F., and is well liked by all at Camp Knox.

LOUISVILLE AFFILIATES.

At their monthly dinner meeting of the Fourth Degree, Knights of Columbus, Louisville Assembly voted to affiliate with the National Council of Men, a branch of the National Catholic Welfare Council. The vote was taken after a discussion and encouraged the further development of the Boy Scout movement under Catholic leadership and to encourage cleaner motion pictures.

WILL HEAR FINE TALK.

At its social meeting Monday night St. Helena's Co-operative Club will have a real treat in the way of a talk by Credo Harris, the well known author and writer, who has chosen for his subject "The Foundation of Louisville and Its Early History." The club is fortunate in having secured Mr. Harris to speak on this topic, as it is one in which he is well versed. On Monday afternoon and evening, April 4, the club will have its entertainment at Trinity Council Hall.

CLEAN PHOTO PLAYS.

The Executive Committee of the motion picture owners of Kentucky have gone on record as condemning salacious or immoral moving pictures. The national association of the motion picture industry was incorporated in its ban on pictures of this sort. It is the intention "to make impossible the exhibition of scenes of persons immorally or indecently clad, to refuse exhibition to pictures depicting in sex appeal rather than the legitimate and honest emotions of life and to bar exploitations of crime, or dissipation, or base pursuit which might have evil influence on the youth of the country."

ALL FILLED UP AT THE CABINET TABLE.

Boss Tobe Hert refuses to be pacified despite "gushing" articles of the Bingham papers.

HONORED ST. PATRICK.

St. Patrick's day was observed in Louisville in a manner that reflected great credit on the Americans of Irish blood. The day dawned bright and clear, and early the children of St. Patrick and their friends were seen everywhere wearing bits of green. Impressive services were held in many of the churches, those at St. Patrick's church being marked with unusual devotion. Low mass was said in the morning and at 9 o'clock solemn high mass was chanted by the Rev. James P. Cronin, V. G., the pastor, assisted by Rev. Father Melody as deacon and Rev. Father Hill as subdeacon. Rev. Francis Martin acting as master of ceremonies. In the sanctuary also were Father Bernard Doherty and Father James Willett. The decorations were very appropriate, palms with ferns and white carnations being used to decorate the altars, which were ablaze with golden lights. The music was very devotional and fully in keeping with the solemn occasion, which concluded with Irish airs effectively rendered as the large congregation was leaving the church. Rev. Francis Martin, of St. Patrick's, delivered the sermon of the day and added much to his reputation as a pulpit orator. His discourse was marked by sincerity of expression, patriotism and sympathy. Loyalty to America as well as devotion to the Emerald Isle were shown in his outspoken sentiment and praise for St. Patrick. From start to finish Father Martin held his listeners in rapt attention. Here the day's celebration was concluded with a sacred concert and address by the Rev. John O'Connor, of Holy Name church, the proceeds of which helped swell Louisville's contribution for the suffering people of Ireland.

At the Church of Our Lady the Rev. Martin O'Connor celebrated the high mass in the morning, and in the evening there was a solemn but brilliant service, with an imposing procession by the parish societies and a special musical programme. Rev. Father Finerty, O. P., of St. Louis Bertrand's delivered an eloquent panegyric on St. Patrick, which was followed by benediction and blessing with the relic of Ireland's apostle. Here also a handsome sum was realized for the Irish relief fund.

Under the auspices of Division 4, A. O. H., a great audience assembled at Bertrand Hall, where a splendid entertainment was given for the benefit of the sufferers in Ireland. Each number was well received. Everybody present was on the quiver for the awarding of the victrola and announcement of the winner in the popularity contest. The victrola went to John McGuire, South Fourth street, and Miss Nellie Langan was awarded the prize in the popularity voting contest, her total being over 30,000. The Azambra celebrated with a ceremonial at Knights of Columbus Hall, followed by an Irish dinner and musical and literary exercises that were much enjoyed.

The descendants of Erin have every reason to congratulate themselves over this year's observance in honor of the Apostle of Ireland.

MADE BIG HIT.

"Shawn Aroon" which was given by St. Augustine's Dramatic Club on St. Patrick's night in Jeffersonville, scored a big hit, Mrs. Margaret Constantine, as leading lady, displaying unusual theatrical ability and her solos were heartily enjoyed. Others in the cast who were well received were Pat King, Joe Burke, Audrian Kennedy and Eileen Carrigan. The play was directed by Rev. Father Sullivan.

K. OF C.

Pilgrimage Next Month Will Constitute Great Religious Event of the Year.

Ten Thousand Will Visit the Shrine of St. Joseph Near Montreal.

Supreme Secretary McGinley Makes First Report on Americanization Work.

FOILED IN TACTLESS EFFORT.

One of the largest pilgrimages ever held in North America will take place on Sunday, April 17, when 10,000 Knights of Columbus, many of them from the United States and cities of Canada, will visit the Crypt of St. Joseph on Cote des Neiges, Montreal, and the venerable Frere Andre, sacristan of the shrine, known throughout the Dominion from Acadia to the Yukon as the miracle man of Canada. Frere Andre, who is credited with having performed hundreds of miracles by devout pilgrims, is seventy-six years old. His civil name is Basette and he entered the seminary as a lay brother with duties as porter. He carried on special devotions to St. Joseph, and his infectiousness was soon reputed effective. From the original hut of St. Joseph on the hill a magnificent white stone shrine has grown. Inside of this shrine clusters of crutches, trusses, etc., bear witness to physical cures. The K. of C. pilgrims of 10,000 to the shrine of St. Joseph and Frere Andre on April 17 will constitute one of the great religious events of the year.

The first Americanization report of the Knights of Columbus, issued by Supreme Secretary William J. Higgins for the K. of C. Education Committee, shows that the K. of C. have spent more than $500,000 in what is known as Americanization work. "This work," the report reads, "has taken the form of the study of English and American laws and customs in the chain of vocational schools operated by the Knights of Columbus throughout the country. We have had approximately 50,000 men and women take up these courses, the principal part of which is the American citizenship. Our experience is that Americanization is not only an welcome term to those who seek to study the matters it embraces, it is also an insufficient term, that has been and is much abused by so-called uplift agencies. We have found hundreds of young men, American-born for generations, who were ready to admit and eager to supply their lack of knowledge of American institutions and the rights and duties of citizenship. At the same time we know that thousands of the foreign-born who are most in need of training in American citizenship are repelled by the tactless efforts of uplifters to reach them. This has been especially the case with foreign-born men formerly with the military and naval forces—whose patriotism is unquestionably proved by their service. In so-called Americanization work, which we prefer to call citizenship study, it is fatal to the objective to make the curriculum stiff and hide-bound. Each individual case must be studied, especially as different national groups must have their various traditions modified and adapted to American ideals and practices. In expending approximately $500,000 for books and tuition in free citizenship courses in the 132 K. of C. schools, and in supplementing this by extra mural work through open forums in scores of communities, we feel that the Knights of Columbus have found a way to inculcate genuine Americanism, which comprises also the training for a livelihood, as distinct from the hysterical attempts to coerce patriotism into the minds of those who must understand it before they can practice it."

The K. of C. report stated, would at a meeting of officers to be held in New York, make provision for further citizenship courses in their schools.

DEATH A SHOCK.

Mrs. Katie E. Barry, fifty years old, beloved wife of John J. Barry, former City Wharfmaster, was the victim of blood poisoning Tuesday afternoon, and news of her death was a great shock to her wide circle of friends, throughout the city, by whom she was held in highest esteem. Mrs. Barry complained of an excessive soreness in the jaws after having her teeth extracted last week. She was taken to St. Mary and Elizabeth Hospital from her home, 1139 South Brook street, but treatment failed to relieve her. Hope was abandoned Tuesday morning. Mrs. Barry formerly was Miss Katie E. Enright, and had a wide acquaintance and circle of friends here, acquired through her activity in church and charitable work. Bright and cheerful in disposition, she made and kept friends, who were ever ready to assist her in any of her charitable undertakings. Beside her husband she is survived by a brother, Dennis Enright, Jersey City. Funeral services were held Thursday morning at St. Mary Magdalene church, which was filled by sorrowing friends. For the bereaved husband there is sincere sympathy.

EASTER SOCIAL.

The congregation of St. Frances of Rome church will entertain with an Easter social at Trinity Council Hall, Baxter and Morton avenues, next Tuesday afternoon and evening. The proceeds derived will be used for the church building fund, and as this is a worthy cause many should take this opportunity to aid and spend an enjoyable evening at the same time. One is sure of a hospitable welcome from Rev. Father Riley, the pastor, and his reception committee.

FROM ROME.

Monsignor Edward P. Allen, Bishop of Mobile, Ala., who remained in Rome after the recent consistory, at the request of Pope Benedict to take part in the ceremony incident to Cardinal Dougherty's taking possession of his titular church, left Rome Tuesday for the United States. Monsignor O'Hern, rector of the American College, and Monsignor Mahoney, spiritual director of the college, have him farewell at the station. Monsignor Allen will sail for New York aboard the steamer Mauretania. Monsignor Giovanni Bonzano, Apostolic Delegate in the United States, will be created a Cardinal in the consistory in November, or early in 1922, it is stated.

GOLDEN JUBILEE.

St. Patrick's day was indeed a day of rejoicing at the Sacred Heart Home of the Sisters of Mercy on College street, when Sister Mary Bridget O'Malley celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of her religious life in the order of the Sisters of Mercy, which was founded in Ireland. The jubilee high mass was celebrated in the chapel of Our Lady of Dolours by the Rev. Father Ignatius Wilkens, O. F. M., while the Rev. Father P. M. J. Rock, rector of the Cathedral, preached a most eloquent and happy sermon, the religious services closing with benediction. Relatives and friends of Sister Mary Bridget were present to give thanks and tender congratulations. During the day the jubilee was the recipient of many messages of congratulation and good will.

SUSTAINS DOUBLE FRACTURE.

The many friends of Mrs. R. E. King, 428 North Twenty-eighth street, were greatly distressed to learn that she sustained a double fracture of her left arm Friday night. Returning to her home after spending the evening with her niece, Mrs. King fell on the stairway, sustaining a severe shock. She was removed to St. Mary and Elizabeth Hospital, where the injured arm was set by Drs. Casper and Dwyer. Mrs. King is again at home, but it will be some time before she can again use her arm.

After graduating at St. Canisius College, Buffalo, N. Y., he entered St. Mary's Seminary, Cleveland, in 1891, and was ordained in the Holy Name parish, St. Louis Bertrand's and Sacred Heart. Curran and Bohmer, managers during the season, also received letters.

SYMPATHY FOR IRELAND.

Roman sympathizers of the Irish cause packed the Elysee Theater in Rome on Monday night of last week to hear speeches by numerous prominent Italians favoring the freedom of Ireland. The theater was decorated with the Italian and Irish flags. The President of the university circle read a list of prominent Italians who were in sympathy with Ireland, among which was Under Secretary of State Bertone.

GENEROUS

Response and Large Contributions Made in Aid of Sufferers in Ireland.

Louisville Relief Association Forwarded its First Installment Monday.

Every Cent Collected Will Be Sent For Immediate Relief.

WILL CONTINUE NEXT WEEK.

St. Patrick's day was very appropriately selected as the opening day for a nation-wide drive for funds for the relief of the suffering women and children in Ireland. Reports from committees in Louisville and the principal cities of the United States indicate that elaborate preparations had been made for this great work of charity and that the people everywhere throughout the country manifested intense enthusiasm in the campaign which the American Committee for Relief in Ireland organized.

In many cities, even before the collection had been formally commenced, large sums had been contributed for the aid of the sufferers in Ireland. The National Committee having charge of the fund announces that all the expenses of the collections will be defrayed by a syndicate of American citizens and that every cent of the amount collected will be forwarded to Ireland.

At a meeting of the Louisville American Irish Relief Association held at the Seelbach Hotel March 21, presided over by Chairman Owen Sullivan, the Finance Committee forwarded $13,000 to J. J. Puley, National Treasurer, New York City, with instructions to send to Ireland for immediate relief. The distribution of the fund is in charge of C. J. France, brother of United States Senator France, of Maryland, and James Douglas, of the Society of Friends (Quakers), to be disbursed to the needy regardless of creed. The campaign continues until March 31, when the balance will be forwarded. As the Kentucky Irish American predicted, Louisville and Kentucky will go over the top, as it has done in all other like drives. Many people and parishes have yet to be heard from, and therefore, Mr. Sullivan, the Treasurer, will be unable to make a full report until next week.

The reputation of the people of Louisville for generosity when applied to for charity or to help those in distress is proverbial, and the noble man in which they are responding to the call for funds to combat starvation and suffering of the women and children of sorely afflicted Ireland is in full keeping with their past record. Unofficial reports would indicate that the Catholic and Protestant churches, and the collections will exceed $2,000 each, closely followed by Holy Name parish, St. Louis Bertrand's and Sacred Heart. Generous collections were also received from the people of St. Cecilia's congregation, St. Mary Magdalene's, St. Anthony, Holy Cross, St. Francis of Rome, as well as from nearly every parish in the diocese.

Shelbyville also came to the front with $327, of which $115 was a special collection taken up by Rev. Father Scott. Tuesday a due John M. Casey and M. O'Sullivan, editor of the Shelby Sentinel, who succeeded in raising an additional $212, their work being largely among their non-Catholic friends. All will agree they did well and the result was indeed very good for Shelbyville and its people.

Chairman Owen Sullivan has received copies of numerous telegrams sent National Director J. F. Lacey, Major Eugene F. Klinead, Chairman of the New Jersey State Committee, and a check for a gift of $1,000 by Jersey City Chapter of the American Red Cross to his committee, accompanied by the following communication from George G. Tennant, Chairman of said chapter: "Jersey City Chapter of the American Red Cross, sensible to the distress which exists in Ireland, is desirous in accordance with its established policy to assist in relieving the same. We had no present means of acting directly and recognizing that your committee is in the field and able to serve we are glad to have you act for us. Enclosed herewith you will please find our check for $1,000, a contribution for this purpose."

Hon. Henry Watterson sent the following telegram from Galveston on St. Patrick's day: "Touching the proposed organization for the relief of Ireland, if my name be of any use, it is at your service." Hon. Albert J. Beveridge, of Indiana, sent the following characteristic response: "On my return find telegram, March 13, requesting use of my name as Honorary Vice Chairman National Committee for Relief in Ireland. Accept with pleasure. Consider it an honor and a duty to aid this humane cause."

Major General Leonard Wood, just leaving for the Philippines, could not take any active part, but sent assurance that the movement had his sympathy and wishing the largest possible measure of success to this worthy effort.

FATHER RIGER CHOLEN.

Right Rev. Bishop Crossen has appointed Rev. Ambrose Riger, O. S. B., of Corbin, as Dean pro tempore of the Lexington deanery.
